

Rail Talks Deadlocked

Union 'No' to Programs Of Presidential Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief negotiator for the nation's railroads said today there has been a "complete breakdown" in negotiations with five railroad unions on a dispute over work rules.

J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, said the operating unions had refused to accept any part of either of two sets of presidential board recommendations to settle the dispute.

He said the unions' refusal has "brought an end to the hollow mockery of collective bargaining on the issues involved."

"Thus, the period of grace requested by President Kennedy and agreed to by both the unions and management, will end on July 10 with the featherbedding dispute remaining unresolved," Wolfe told a news conference.

"The issues involved here have twice been submitted to impartial presidential boards of the highest competence and the railroads have accepted the recommendations of these boards even though they contained more than generous concessions to the unions."

Wolfe said that since every step of the Railroad Labor Act has been exhausted in an effort to

Demand Release Of Spys

Charge 4 In Data Theft Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union demanded today the immediate release of two Russians it said were "unlawfully" arrested by U. S. authorities on spy charges Tuesday.

The demand for release of a Russian employee of the United Nations and his wife was presented at the State Department by the ranking Soviet diplomat here, charge d'affaires Georgi M. Kornienko, in a 20-minute session with Richard H. Davis, deputy assistant secretary for European affairs.

The two, arrested at their Flushing, L.I., apartment, were Ivan Dmitriyevich Egorov, 41, a U.N. secretariat personnel officer, and his wife, Aleksandra Egorov, 39.

Picked up here in the same espionage case were another couple named in the complaint as "John and Jane Doe." The FBI said they had been living under the names of innocent Americans who were unaware their identities had been appropriated.

There was no immediate report on who the Washington couple really are.

The State Department had no immediate comment on the demand for release of those arrested in New York.

The arrests Tuesday in Washington and on Long Island followed by one day a U.S. order for expulsion of a Soviet Embassy official for attempting to recruit a Russian-born U.S. intelligence official to spy for the Reds. But the FBI said there is no link between the two cases.

Two Bond Issues Are Rejected

Tipton voters solidly rejected two proposed municipal bonds in a special election Tuesday.

The combined vote was about two to one against the $55,000 in bonds, which required a two-thirds majority for approval.

On the $40,000 water works proposal, which would have provided for the installation of a new well, pump and lines, the vote was 66 in favor to 188 against. A $15,000 proposal for improvement and repair of streets was defeated 93 to 162.

In the West Ward, a special election for councilman saw Eugene J. (Gene) Bestgen elected on an unopposed ticket. Bestgen will fill a vacancy created by the resignation of William L. (Bill) Green, who had served five and a half years up to the time of his resignation, and was president of the city council.

CAR-TRAIN FATALITY—John Bus, 58, 221 South Grand, was killed instantly when his car and westbound Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 17 collided at the Marshall Avenue crossing at 12:35 p.m. today. Train-Car Crash Kills

John Bus, 58, MoPac Employee Is Victim

John Bus, 58, of 221 South Grand, a sheetmetal worker for the Missouri Pacific Railroad Shops, was killed instantly at 12:35 p.m. today when his car was struck by westbound Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 17 at the Marshall Avenue crossing.

Bus's 1960 Ford sedan was northbound across the tracks when struck by the train. The auto was carried approximately 800 yards west to a supplementary crossing near Fourth and Babcock.

Engineer of the train was W. A. Gnagi, 66, Route 5, Jefferson City. Gnagi said the train was enroute from St. Louis to Omaha, Neb., and was scheduled for a stop in Sedalia.

Witnesses in the train said Bus did not look up and apparently did not see the oncoming train until too late.

The train struck the car on its left side almost directly in the middle.

The engineer told investigating police officers the train was traveling approximately 70 miles per hour as it came upon the car at the crossing.

R. C. Cook, 53, 1203 Monroe, Jefferson City, was the train's fireman. J. H. Cramer, Kansas City, was the conductor.

The car was completely demolished and extensive damage was registered to the train's engine. Railroad welders had to repair damages to hoses at the front of the train before the engine could proceed.

Police waited to remove Bus's body from the wreckage until the remains could be viewed by Dr. Gordon C. Stauffer, Pettis County coroner. Stauffer ruled Bus was killed instantly.

The body was taken to the Gillespie Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Bus had been employed at the railroad shops since 1924. His wife, Ellene, preceded him in death in 1947.

Among the survivors are three children, two sons and a daughter.

Bus's death was Sedalia's second fatality for 1963. Albert O. Teter, 94, 1514 South Prospect, died from injuries in a one-car accident at Fourth and Moniteau on Feb. 4.

Vice Charges On Dr. Ward By British

LONDON (AP)—A magistrates court today ordered Dr. Stephen Ward, U.S.-educated osteopath, held for trial on vice charges.

Police claim Ward, 50, is a central figure in the John Profumo-Christine Keeler sex and security scandal which has shaken the Conservative government to its foundations.

After a three-day preliminary hearing, Judge Leo Gradwell ruled that Ward must answer before a jury charges ranging from living on the earnings of prostitutes to procuring an abortion.

The trial will be held in London's famous Old Bailey court, probably in September.

Ward has proclaimed his innocence. He has not denied that Miss Keeler, a 21-year-old redhead whose involvement with Profumo led to the latter's resignation as war minister, was his protegee, along with various other party girls.

A crown prosecutor declared that Ward provided bedrooms for girls in two flats he rented in London, and took a cut of the proceeds.

Headquarters for the goings-on, Prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones asserted, was an apartment in Wimpole Mews on the city's gay West Side.

It was hinted that weird sexual acts took place at both flats, with transparent mirrors providing onlookers with a view.

JFK Reviews Proposals Of Khrushchev

May Be Opener For Accord Or Just Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy met with top advisers once today and scheduled a second meeting later to weigh Soviet Premier Khrushchev's vague bid for banning nuclear tests everywhere but underground and for an East-West nonaggression pact.

The Russian leader set forth his suggestions in a major speech in East Berlin.

Kennedy met for an hour this morning to assess all the implications of the address, in an effort to determine how much might be simply propaganda and how much might represent an opening for an East-West accord.

Among those who talked things over with the chief executive this morning — and were told to come back at 4 p.m. for a second round — were Deputy Secretary of State Averell Harriman, a former ambassador to Moscow; Undersecretary of State George Ball; Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara; William C. Foster, head of the government's disarmament agency, and his deputy, Adrian S. Fisher.

FAA Launches Aviation Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Aviation Agency launched a nationwide survey of "general aviation" operations Tuesday.

General aviation is all civil aviation other than that operated for and by the airlines.

The FAA said it is estimated the number of general aviation aircraft has increased from 66,000 in 1957 to about 84,000 planes, or 40 times as many as the airlines have.

"Insufficient data is available, however, to serve as a logical base for FAA and industry planning to meet future general aviation requirements," the FAA said.

"General aviation is the fastest growing segment of the entire aviation community, yet much less is known about the characteristics of general aviation flying than any other kind of flight activity."

Harvesting of Wheat Is Almost Complete

Wheat harvesting in this vicinity is almost complete, according to Dick Laffoon, farm placement representative for the division of employment security of Missouri State Employment Service.

Laffoon said, the crop is much better than last year. It is estimated the yield averaged between 35 and 40 bushels per acre. Most of the corn is plowed and the earlier corn is tasseling. The hot, dry weather of the past week has been a boon to the crop.

The hay harvest is in full swing, stated Mr. Laffoon, and the demand for bale buckers is good. The employment office is holding three job orders for married farm hands, with wages ranging from $35 to $40 per week.

Hear Unfair Labor Count On Shoe Firm

Case Involves Weber Company Of Tipton, Mo.

An unfair labor practice charge against the Weber Shoe Company of Tipton, Mo., was the subject of a National Labor Relations Board hearing conducted here Monday and Tuesday in the Pettis County Circuit Courtroom.

The charge was filed by Robert H. Wilton, assistant regional director of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union, AFL-CIO, St. Louis and was made in behalf of three Sedalians, James E. Hayes, Martha A. Hayes and Vera A. Watring.

The union charged the three employees of the plant were discharged in January of this year because of their activities on behalf of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union. The Weber plant is a non-union firm, an election to unionize the plant having failed on Nov. 23, 1962.

John S. Boyer, Jr., an attorney for the National Labor Relations Board, 17th region, Kansas City, told The Democrat-Capital that W. Edwin Youngblood, trial examiner assigned from Washington, D.C., took the case under advisement after the hearing.

Boyer said the usual process following such a hearing is for the transcript to be prepared and briefs submitted to the trial examiner. These are due Aug. 5, Boyer said, and thereafter the examiner will make his report and recommendation to the NLRB.

The company stated it discharged the three Sedalians after they failed to report their absence from work on Jan. 28, which was the day following major natural gas line breaks near Sedalia.

Boyer said the three employees were discharged on Jan. 29 and that they received their final pay checks on Jan. 30.

The hearing was conducted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday. It reconvened at 8 a.m. Tuesday and concluded shortly before noon.

Area Residents To Soviet Union For Short Tour

Two area residents—J. H. Bagby, Sedalia, and Charles Waite, Eldon—will spend several days in Moscow, Russia, late this month and in early August.

The visit is part of the United States goodwill people-to-people program and is under the auspices of the Missouri State Department. There are 31 Missouri farmers making the tour.

The group was briefed last weekend in Jefferson City by the Wisconsin Secretary of State who has made two similar tours.

Bagby will be leaving Sedalia July 15 and will spend a few days in New York where he will tour the new Pepsi-Cola plant and attend business meetings. Prior to departing the U.S. on July 19, the group will be briefed at the United Nations.

Each individual is paying his own expenses.

Stops on the tour will be made at Manchester, London, Coventry, Brussels, Moscow, Tashkent, Warsaw, Budapest, Cologne, Frankfurt and Berlin.

Lightning Kills Girl

OLATHE, Kan. (AP)—Lightning killed Linda Fulton, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Fulton, as she was walking home from the municipal swimming pool Tuesday.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz had arranged to re-enter the talks today in an effort to resolve the dispute.

Wolfe said, however, that as far as the carriers are concerned this does not preclude consideration of any "constructive suggestions by the President, the secretary of labor or any interested party."

ONE THAT WON'T RING—When the bells toll Thursday at 2 p.m. throughout Sedalia and the nation, here's one that will hang mute. It's the victory bell at Smith-Hogg high school which was recently installed. The students pictured agreed to ring the bell and pose for this picture — that's when it was discovered there's no "clapper" in the bell. The "Let Freedom Really Ring" campaign has been spurred locally by the Sedalia Lions Club and a resolution has been passed by Congress to ring bells throughout the nation at 2 p.m., July 4. Gorilla Hunter Sues a Vet

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A $400,000 lawsuit in which a veteran animal hunter from University City, Mo., claims he was wronged by a Leawood, Kan., veterinarian went to trial Tuesday.

Philip Joseph Carroll, who was in the wild animal business in Africa from 1928 to 1958, brought suit more than three years ago against Dr. Deets Pickett, donor of four baby gorillas to Kansas City's Swope Park zoo.

Carroll operated a compound at Yaounde, in what was then the French Cameroons.

Carroll seeks $5,250 for room and board allegedly provided to Pickett and his wife; repayment of a $975 loan, with interest; $22,500 actual and $50,000 punitive damages for alleged loss of his business to the Picketts.

The case is being heard without a jury by Judge Floyd R. Gibson in federal court.

Dr. Pickett testified that after visiting Carroll at Yaounde in 1958 he returned in 1959 and was asked by the Cameroon government to engage in the gorilla business.

He denied that his gorillas were supplied by natives trained over the years by Carroll. He said he got them through contracts made through the game warden's office. He also denied using Carroll's contacts with the U.S. Air Force in supplying chimpanzees for the space program.

He testified that for 5½ months he did not even visit the compound used by Carroll.

Taken to the police station by Officer Lester Williams, the two reportedly admitted to Juvenile Officer Cecil Glenn, Chief Ralph Hamlin, and Williams that they did take the items.

The boys were released to the juvenile officer and their mother.

Charles Bundi, 1002 South Massachusetts, reported to police at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday that someone entered their apartment last Wednesday and Thursday, taking two silver dollars. When he returned from work Tuesday evening, he found the apartment had again been entered and ransacked, with nothing believed missing.

He expressed the belief to police that the persons involved were probably children, entering through a small window, and leaving either through the same window or by unlocking the door.

Civil Rights March Held In K. C.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Singing the song of the integration movement, "We Shall Overcome," more than 200 persons marched to the Board of Education Building Tuesday to demand further integration of the public school system.

The demonstrators carried signs with such slogans as: "Color is only Board Deep," "God loves all Mankind...does the Board?" and "Jim Crow is a Boundary Line."

The demonstration was sponsored by the Kansas City chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

After marching 16 blocks in 96-degree heat, most of the demonstrators went inside the air conditioned auditorium of the board building, where they were heard by Homer C. Wadsworth, president of the school board, James A. Hazlett, superintendent of schools, and other officials.

Dr. Robert Farnsworth, assistant professor of English at the University of Kansas City, accused the board of creating segregated schools with boundary shifts by permitting white students to transfer out of integrated schools.

The Rev. A. Cecil Williams, chairman of the CORE's special action committee, said the board "should plan boundaries, transfer policies, proposed school sites, bussing policies, faculty selection and placement in a way that avoids placing any group of children at a disadvantage because of racial distinction."

Wadsworth told the group their suggestions would be given consideration. He said the group would be granted a hearing at the next board meeting, which probably will be held after July 20.

Woman's Voice Back After Sonic Boom

FRIEDRICHAFEN, Germany (AP)—The chief surgeon of the Friedrichshafen Hospital credits a West German jet fighter with helping a patient regain her voice.

Dr. H. Schotk said a 60-year-old woman had been speechless as a result of a shock from an automobile accident. A few days ago, a jet fighter broke the sound barrier near the hospital. The bang shocked the woman so much her voice returned in a few minutes, the doctor said.

Litterbug to Clean Up For Two Weeks

JACKSON, Mo. (AP)—Thomas Heyde threw a beer can onto U.S. 61 the other day. Magistrate Roland Busch gave him a choice Monday: spend 60 days in jail or the next two Sundays picking up litter along the highway. Heyde, who is in his 20s, will begin picking the road at 9 a.m. Sunday.

Bloodhounds Inhale Powdery Dirt

HILTON, N. Y. (AP)—Two bloodhounds were taken off a search Monday because they began sneezing after inhaling powdery dirt, state police said.

The dogs were hunting for Thomas Harrell, wanted in connection with the fatal stabbing of his roommate, Eugene Peterson, at a migrant labor camp near this western New York community.

K. C. Woman Gets The Book

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Mrs. Loretta D. Huxtable, 19, blonde and petite, faced these charges after an encounter with police in Kansas City and North Kansas City Tuesday:

Resisting arrest (two counts). Drunk and careless driving.

Driving without a license.

Failing to stop for a police vehicle.

Driving 70 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone.

Disregarding a red light.

Aggravated assault on a police officer.

Mrs. Huxtable led a North Kansas City patrolman on a chase reaching 70 miles an hour after he spotted her driving erratically in the wee hours.

He couldn't keep up, but the chase was soon joined by Patrolman David Courtney of Kansas City and a fellow officer, who anticipated her route and parked their car broadside in the road.

Mrs. Huxtable took to the shoulder, by-passed their car and rocketed on, they said.

They anticipated her route again and once more blocked the road with their car. This time Courtney stood by with a riot gun at the ready. Leaping aside as Mrs. Huxtable roared past, he took quick aim and fired, hitting a tire on her car. She careened to a stop in about 200 yards.

Mrs. Huxtable said she didn't remember a thing after drinking a fifth of vodka a few hours earlier.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: There's an unwritten law in our office that when a married woman becomes pregnant she leaves before her fifth month. There's no rule for the unmarried ones because you just don't expect it to happen to them.

It did happen, however, to a secretary in our 30's and this is what I'm writing about. She remained silent about her condition and continued to work though anyone could see she was expecting a child. She didn't wear maternity clothes, but kept to skirts and blouses in large sizes. When she became enormous the office manager asked her to take a leave of absence. Seven weeks later her baby was born.

Three weeks have passed and the woman is back at work. She's about 35 pounds lighter, and acts as if everything is just ginger-peachy.

We don't know if she has released the child for adoption or what. She hasn't said one word about what happened. We feel her behavior is outrageous and would like your advice on how to treat her.—WE GIRLS.

Dear Girls: Treat her exactly as YOU would like to be treated if the same thing had happened to you.

Dear Ann Landers: We live next door to a family which has five children. They range from 12 years of age down to three.

Good Memory Takes Some Developing

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Do names fall trippingly off your tongue while performing introductions, and do you never forget a face? Do you always remember exactly where you parked your car? Can you invariably go straight to where you laid your glasses or keys or sewing, hours before? Then you need no advice from Dr. Bruno Furst and Lotte, a fellow memory instructor and his wife of 35 years.

"Anyone can develop a good memory," says Dr. Furst. "Look at me. My very bad memory when I was a law student in Munich 50-some years ago was a classroom joke."

That's where he got interested in mnemonics (the science of memory) and later was able to astound judges and sway juries with his impeccable recounting of testimony and previous rulings. An outspoken anti-Nazi, he came to this country in 1938 by way of the University of Prague, with an unforgettable wife, a phenomenal memory and practically no knowledge of English.

In the last 20 years, he has taught at least 25,000 absent-minded Americans—in his School of Memory, at adult education courses in Brooklyn College where he and his wife are instructors and at various business firms where he guides young executives in remembering names, price lists and sales talks.

He has numerous systems of memory, but for those who would just like to be able to remember the names of newcomers at the garden club meeting, he recommends:

Make sure you hear the name. Ninety per cent of introductions are slurred, he says. If you don't hear it, ask again. It's flattering to the person you meet, because it sounds as if you really are interested.

Then repeat the name as often as you can in the ensuing conversation.

Form an association with the name. Mr. Black, black hair. If there is no meaning find a substitute. Barlow: bar, barely, barley. (Using the same first letter.)

Write the name down as soon as you can.

And while you courteously append his name to every sentence as you talk, study his face. The biggest reason you can't remember a face is that you really don't look at it.

What about remembering where you park the car? The second you get out, form an association between the car and its location, connecting it with a drugstore, or a peculiar tree or a green shut-

Our children who are 11 and 9 would rather be next door than home. They want to sleep there, eat there and are often included in outings and excursions with the neighbor's children.

I have told the mother repeatedly that I feel guilty, adding the burden of our two to five, but she assures me she doesn't mind since our children are "a pleasure to have around."

I fear, however, that the warm relationship is creating a delicate problem—religion. Our children are becoming more than casually interested in the religion of the family next door. My husband is afraid they may want to change.

We have permitted our youngsters to go to church with the neighbors and they are fascinated with the ritual. Any advice? —B. B. C.

Dear B. B. C.: And what is the spiritual climate in YOUR home? Do you and your husband take your children to worship? Do they attend Sunday school?

If a child's spiritual needs are not satisfied at home it is not surprising that he would look elsewhere. I suspect you have been derelict in your duty and now the neighbors' religion is filling the vacuum. Get busy.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter who is 21 will be a November bride. Please help me with this headstrong girl.

Miriam has a wealth of chestnut brown hair with beautiful auburn highlights. Last year she had it chopped off and is now wearing a boy-bob. It looks simply atrocious. I can't figure out why she did it. Miriam's hair has always been her best feature. She has a prominent nose and her chin is not strong.

Yesterday we went to look at wedding gowns and veils. When she tried on the crowns and caps I was sick. The girl looks like a monkey. When I told her she desperately needed hair to frame her face she insisted I was old-fashioned and that the cropped look is "in." If I send her picture will you please be on my side and say so? She won't listen to me but she WILL listen to you.—NEED AN ALLY

Dear Need: Don't send the picture. I can visualize the problem. Only a beautiful face can afford the luxury of chopping off magnificent hair. Most women need hair to soften their features.

A wedding crown on a boy-bob is not very "in" no matter how you look at it. I'm with you, mother.

Confidential to VERY WORRIED ABOUT HIM: Only 12 years old and already a practicing psychiatrist? My advice is to leave his psyche alone or he may identify you with a symbol of "nosiness." Just continue to be friendly and kind and stop playing doctor.

Eagleton Against Constitution Change

SEATTLE (AP)—Atty. Gen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri is leading a campaign to put the National Association of Attorneys General on record against proposed amendments which would restrict the powers of the U. S. Supreme Court and change the method of amending the Constitution.

The association opened its annual convention Monday and Eagleton submitted a resolution strongly opposing the amendment. The attorneys general of California, Massachusetts, Minnesota and Illinois endorsed his attack.

Eagleton also submitted resolutions deploring recent criticism of the Supreme Court and commending Alabama's attorney general for his appeals for law and order recently when Negro students were admitted to the University of Alabama.

HONOLULU (AP)—A converted World War II B25 bomber with five persons aboard landed at Honolulu International Airport Monday with less than three minutes of fuel left.

Furst had had few casualties with his students. But he remembers one young man who took to heart his admonition to look at people, then look away and try to form an impression. Half of Class Of '53 Attend Class Reunion

More than half the class of 1953, Smith-Cotton High School attended the class reunion held Saturday night, June 29, at the Ambassador Room Bothwell Hotel, the first reunion they had had since their graduation ten years ago.

Gary Cox served as master of ceremonies and invocation was given by Donald Barnes. The group sang the school song after which dinner was served.

A memorial was given for the two members of the class who had died, Charles Walch and Gerald Siron.

Cox read the class will, introduced the guests, and prizes were awarded members for various reasons. John Starke was given a prize for coming the longest distance. He came from Los Angeles, Calif. A prize was given to Lillian Satterwhite Lees for being married the longest; to Donna Lou Rudd Callahan for the most children, five; to Catherine Ann Drake Dent, for the newest baby, two and a half weeks old; to Donald Barnes as the most eligible bachelor and to Donnie Dill who had the baldest head.

They all went to the Court House steps where a member of their class, Conrad Knight, took their pictures.

The evening closed with a dance in the Ambassador Room.

There were 153 in the class and 103 members, their husbands and wives, attended the reunion.

The Flags and the Bells

Will Sedalians stir up enough energy Thursday to display the American flag or ring bells? Both are scheduled as a token in observance of Independence Day — the flag for display all day, the bells to be rung at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The D.A.R. and Veterans' organizations continue encouragement of flag display: the Lions club, locally and nationally, is stimulating interest in revival of bell ringing.

Neither of these patriotic gestures require much physical effort. Just a wee bit of enthusiasm to displace customary apathy which has become too deep-seated in Americans' consciousness.

Usually overwhelming effort is expended preparing for a holiday outing. Surely a little of it can be devoted to obtaining and displaying the flag on this special occasion if for no other reason than the effect it has on the inquisitive boys and girls. Let them have the thrill of seeing Old Glory floating in the breeze — if we have one that day — or listening to the bells ringing. If you must be a sour puss don't dampen the enthusiasm of those who as future citizens will guide this nation's destiny. Don't presume to be too independent to recognize Independence Day.

Flags can be bought locally at a nominal price; bells, too, for that matter. If the budget won't allow the purchase of either then the least a person can do to jar himself into an awareness of Independence day is to ring the kids' bicycle bell. If the bike doesn't have such an attachment, take the spring wound alarm clock out on the front porch and sound off. If it's all electric, then scare up an extension cord and ring out electrically.

Remember a bell never rings of itself — unless someone or something activates it, it is as dumb as a spiritless person trying to feign patriotism. Anyway, don't just stand there. Do something to recognize and appreciate the day and what it stands for in personal benefits to every American citizen instead of growling and scowling and expressing sullenness.

If nothing else, break out with a shout:

"Hooray for Independence Day!"

"Things Were Bad Enough, Then Prince Charles Took That Nip!"

The World Today

High Court No 'Dozing Audience'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Justice Felix Frankfurter once said the Supreme Court is not a "dozing audience." The nine justices, who don't have time for dozing, were busier than ever this year.

A record 2,824 cases were laid in the court's lap for review in the 1962-63 term just ended. This was three times the yearly average before World War II and an increase of more than 1,000 cases over five years ago.

The court, as usual, rejected most of the petitions but gave majority opinions in 110. The previous term the figure was 85. Why the increase in the number of cases?

One reason is that so many more prisoners in state and federal penitentiaries have learned how to write petitions. Another is the population increase, meaning more cases handled in lower courts and, thus, more appeals.

At this point the law clerks, recent graduates of law schools, come into the picture. Each justice has two (they stay a year), except Chief Justice Earl Warren, who has three, and Justice William O. Douglas, who always has one.

They are of the utmost importance in helping a justice do his research.

Justices operate independently, each in a three-room suite of offices, but studies of the court show that over the years, because the problems are the same, the nine justices operate pretty much the same in a general way.

Since each of the 2,824 cases which reached the court this past term had to be examined individually by each justice — before he could say it did or didn't deserve consideration — the justices rely on their clerks for help.

The clerks examine each application and make a digest of it. The justices read the digests. In some cases they may be enough for a justice to make up his mind. Otherwise, he reads both the digest and the case.

When the nine meet behind closed doors on Friday they discuss each application for review and vote to accept or reject. A vote of four, less than a majority, is enough to accept. This is only part of the job.

From Monday through Thursday for two weeks each month the nine justices in open court listen to lawyers argue the cases they voted to accept. (The other two weeks are for writing opinions and doing research.)

Then in Friday conference the justices can discuss and reach a decision, although there may be variation in this, on the cases they had heard argued in the previous few days. This, however, is considered a tentative opinion.

After the decision is reached one of the majority is assigned the task of writing the court's opinion. Any of the other justices may write a concurring or dissenting opinion to explain how and why he reached his position.

Only the majority decision has the effect of law.

Then the justices exchange their opinions, particularly the majority opinion. This allows them to criticize or suggest changes. Infrequently, after this exchange a justice may change his mind.

In addition the justices give a number of lectures a year, frequently at law schools.

An old question arises: Do the law clerks ever write an opinion for a justice? This writer has found no evidence that it ever happens. But reports by law clerks in other years do show this:

Sometimes a justice asks his law clerk—especially toward the end of a term—to write an opinion or outline for an opinion. This gives a law clerk practice, at least.

The justice goes over it, discards it entirely, criticizes it, perhaps finds ideas in it, or uses it as a starting point for the opinion he writes.

We the Women

Always a Tactful Way

by Ruth Millett,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A recent issue of a woman's magazine featured an article called "Tact Can Get Things Done."

Truer words were never spoken. We women are forever letting ourselves be persuaded into doing things that we don't really want to do, because some tactful person sweet-talks us into it.

Who would take the job of treasurer of an organization, if frankly told, "This is a hard and thankless job that no body wants. Will you take it?" Nobody would take it, that's two.

But a tactful nominating committee chairman can get her treasurer by some such line as, "You're so good at financial matters and so business like that you're the only member capable of making a good treasurer." That kind of tact gets the vacancy filled — even if it has to be used on several different members before one swallows it hook, line, and sinker.

Who would take on the job of homeroom mother or den mother or Brownie leader, if told candidly, "Any mother, almost, could do this job, but most mothers are so quick on the excuses it is hard to find leaders." Nobody would, of course.

So the tactful woman whose job it is to secure leaders tells each prospect, "You are the ideal person for this job. You get along so well with children; you have so many original ideas; you are the kind of person all the mothers would be glad to trust their children to."

And so it goes. Most of the volunteer work of the world is done by women who have had tact used on them. Without tact — the volunteers' jobs would go begging.

But there's always someone at the top smart enough to know that "tact can get things done."

Lift Ban On Tattoos

NEW YORK (AP)—It's an inalienable right of man to have his body tattooed. A State Supreme Court justice has ruled.

And if you do, he added, you're in good company.

For example Justice Jacob Markowitz said Monday, "Lady Randolph Churchill, the American-born mother of Sir Winston Churchill, was tattooed for ornamental purposes, as were King Frederick IX of Denmark, King George V, Edward VII, Alfonso XII of Spain, Viscount Montgomery, as well as countless other distinguished members of society."

He ruled that a city health department ban on tattooing as a possible carrier of hepatitis, a liver ailment, was unconstitutional. He also said there was no evidence that tattooing is dangerous. A Coney Island tattoo emporium challenged the ban.

The Doctor's Mailbag

Common Dust Sometimes Can Stir Up Allergies

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have an allergy to dust. What is the treatment?

A—In some persons with a hard-to-define allergy, common house dust may be the culprit. But often it is hard to pinpoint the element in the dust that is responsible.

Dust is a combination of human and animal dandruff, molds from both outdoors and indoors, lint, clay, and soot.

The treatment is similar to that for any other allergy. Avoid contact with dust, especially by inhalation, as much as possible. Your doctor may prescribe epinephrine and antihistamines for relief of symptoms. For long-range protection, get desensitizing shots.

Although commercially prepared house dust antigen can be used for this purpose, the best results are usually obtained by using a preparation made from the sweepings in your home.

Q—Tests show that my adrenal glands are overactive. Is this Cushing's disease? Could it cause cancer?

A—Cushing's disease shows up in an excess of fat which accumulates in the face, causing "moon-face"; in back of the shoulders, causing "buffalo hump"; and in the abdomen. The blood pressure is increased, the victim tires easily, there is an excessive growth of hair on the usually nonhairy parts, there may be bleeding under the skin, and the bones become weak through a lack of ability to retain calcium. As a result, they may collapse.

With more than half of the victims, a tumor of the adrenal gland is the cause. Changes in the pituitary gland are usually present, but these are probably a result, and not the cause, of the disease.

Since some of the tumors of the adrenal associated with Cushing's disease are malignant, it would be more correct to say that this type of cancer is a cause of the hyperactivity of the adrenals than that the hyperactivity caused the cancer.

Surgical removal of the adrenals is the recommended treatment, in any case. This was not possible before adrenal cortical hormones became available but now, with these supplements to replace the essential adrenal secretions, persons with Cushing's disease can be restored to a more normal life.

Q—My right hand turns numb when I go to bed every night. What would cause this?

A—Numbness can result from injury to a sensory nerve in the hand or to a disease anywhere throughout the sensory pathways. It is impossible to pinpoint the cause of your numbness without a thorough examination.

Q—What is radiculitis? My doctor has me wear a body brace for it.

A—Radiculitis is an inflammation of the root of one of the large nerves that branches off from the spinal cord. A body brace should help you to avoid making movements that would irritate this nerve. Treatment depends on the cause.

GIRLS — The thanks go to you, Mrs. A. B., and the other girls who so generously share your own pet tricks for making everyday tasks easier. I marvel at your ingenuity. Do keep those hints coming to me. By the way, don't forget to try the starch suggestion on a scrap of material before using it on the actual garment, as it may be a fabric that does not react kindly to liquid starch.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I wash my nylon curtains by dipping them up and down in good suds. I hang them immediately on the clothesline and turn the hose on them. This removes all trace of the suds and seems to lessen any evidence of creases.—M. G. C.

DEAR POLLY — I have both a hint and a problem. My tip is for mothers with small girls who seem to grow like weeds. I make last year's dresses look more attractive by encasing No. 9 (small) cording at the old hemline so the crease does not show. It makes a pretty decoration and hides the old hem mark.

My problem is getting ballpoint pen ink off a doll. Do you or any of the girls have a solution?—MRS. W. D.

DEAR POLLY — When my young son's friends come to play, they often carry a note asking me to send them home at a certain time. I just set the timer to ring at that time and then no matter how busy I happen to be, everyone knows it is time for our young guests to go home.—MRS. B. W. K.

DEAR POLLY — To prevent slip straps from tearing off so easily, take a one-half to one-inch length of elastic, about the same width as the strap, and sew one end to the slip and the other to the strap. This works on toddler's overall straps, too.—MRS. L. A.

DEAR POLLY — All knitters know it is best to join yarn at the end of a row. To determine whether you have enough wool to work the row all the way across, spread the work out on the needle. Then if the yarn left measures four times as long as the work on the needle there will be enough to knit the full row.—S. R.

GIRLS — How many times I have gambled on there being enough yarn for another row. Now I wonder why it never occurred to me to ravel out one row and measure the amount required. Four times is it, in plain knitting, but I would like an extra inch for the tying together.—POLLY

Possible Presidential Candidate

George Wallace Stands Taller Today After Crisis

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — As an Alabama political figure, Gov. George C. Wallace may have emerged from the University of Alabama racial crisis a taller man than ever before.

His "schoolhouse door" stand against the admittance of three Negro students to the university, although unsuccessful, is the reason for a greater prestige.

Wallace still clings to the hope that, somehow, he will convince the federal courts that the three Negroes were illegally admitted to the university, where Confederate officers trained a century ago.

Recently, the university board of trustees, of which the governor is ex-officio president, asked the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals to set aside the District Court order which put the Negroes in school.

Much of the praise in the state for his refusal to leave the school house door until federalized National Guard troops marched onto the campus is based on the absence of mob violence. Wallace had sealed off the university with state troopers and had National Guardsmen on standby duty before they were called into federal service.

Encouraged by the support, the governor has intensified his determination to withhold Alabama's electoral votes from President Kennedy in next year's election.

He traveled to Jackson, Miss., to help organize a companion independent elector drive there.

If the two states, and possibly others, do rebel against the national Democratic party again, Wallace may head a states rights presidential ticket.

The goal of an unpledged elector campaign would be to force the election into the House of Representatives. Wallace has no illusions that he could be elected on a third party ticket.

But he may have other political ambitions—perhaps the U.S. Senate. Or a second term as governor starting in 1971. The state constitution prohibits the governor from succeeding himself.

Sen. John Sparkman, Democrat, comes up for re-election in 1966, but Wallace couldn't oppose him then. The governor is disqualified by law from occupying any elective state office for at least a year after the expiration of his term in 1967.

If Wallace has designs on the Senate, he will have to wait until Sen. Lister Hill, Democrat, comes up again in 1968.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Political Questions Remain Unanswered

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Washington Merry-Go-Round today is written by Drew Pearson's Associate, Jack Anderson.

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A suggestion to Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee — before you close the books on your protracted probe of the TFX contract, here are some important leads your investigators have overlooked. They pertain chiefly to the fact that Grumman Aircraft is a vital partner in the General Dynamics TFX contract and Grumman's close liaison with the Democratic party.

This does not mean to exclude General Dynamics from political motivation. They have used politics and lured ex-Pentagon officials as much or more than any company. But in a contract running into $6 billions, they are sub-contractors, and long before the TFX contract was let, one Pentagon General told this column, "Grumman is the company to watch."

To be specific, here are some leads which your Senate Probers might run down:

Lead No. 1 — Jack Rettaliata, vice president of Grumman, had a private session at the exclusive "Q Club" in the famous Carroll Arms Hotel on Sept. 26, which was two months before the TFX contract was signed.

When questioned by this column, Rettaliata swears he can't remember who was present, but it's reported that John English, Democratic Chairman for Nassau County, N.Y., where Grumman is located, together with Matty Matthews, chief money raiser for the Senate Democratic campaign committee, were present, together with one official in the Pentagon.

Lead No. 2 — Matty Matthews was formerly on Grumman's payroll before he came to work for the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee. He has put Rettaliata in frequent touch with Vice President Johnson's office, specifically with Walter Jenkins, his assistant. Jenkins, when questioned, said that Rettaliata's visit and phone calls had dealt with the Gulfstream airplane, a sleek executive Jet manufactured by Grumman which has been put at the disposal of leading Democrats.

Jenkins emphasized that Vice President Johnson had taken no free rides in Gulfstreams, but when this writer talked to Rettaliata he admitted that Grumman had furnished the Vice President with a "Demonstration plane."

Lead No. 3 — Before the TFX contract was awarded, the President's brother, Senator Teddy, spoke to Rettaliata and other Grumman officials about placing more sub-contracts in Massachusetts. When I asked Rettaliata whether Grumman would do what the Senator from Massachusetts asked, he replied:

"It would be hard to avoid the area."

Lead No. 4 — Whether Vice President Johnson intervened in the TFX contract on behalf of General Dynamics — Grumman is a matter of dispute. The Air Force states that

Home, Swift Home

The room may seem a little cramped for some people. But it has a lot of window space and usually is quite sunny.

It is amazingly adaptable. No room available is so truly an all purpose area.

The chairs are close enough together to form a good conversational grouping. So it's a spot that can serve as a social setting, an office, or even a conference room.

With almost no change you can make it into a bar, or a cozy love nest. Occasionally, if specially fitted out, it will function as a small bedroom.

The place admittedly is too small for good television viewing but is fine for radio. And the scene from the windows is richly varied.

Where do you find so serviceable a room, in this age when personal comfort appeals above all else?

Just stick your head into your garage, or your carport, and you'll see it sitting there—on four wheels.

Mrs. Lodge Ready To Go To Viet Nam

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—"I am extremely excited about going to Viet Nam," says the new ambassador's wife, Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge. "I am looking forward to it more than I can say."

Now that's the sort of comment you'd expect from a diplomat's wife. It's enthusiastic, gracious, with just the right touch of lady-like gung ho. But with Emily Lodge you can be sure she means it. She wouldn't have said it otherwise.

"It's a fascinating part of the world," she continues the telephone interview, the edge of restrained excitement still in her voice. "Cabot and I were there—let's see—when George was a year old. That was 34 years ago. I remember it as a very beautiful country."

She concedes they'll be walking into a touchy situation, what with a war going on there against Communist-led guerrillas.

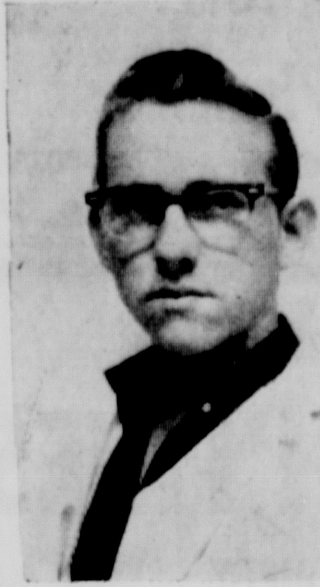

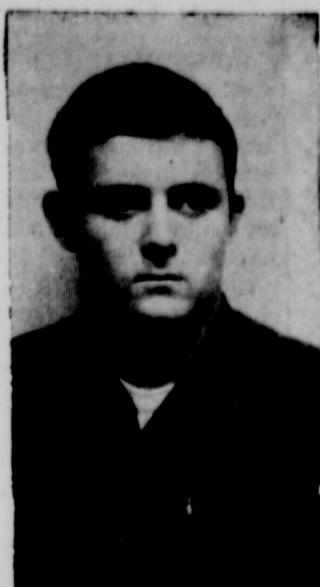

"It's a challenge," she agrees cheerfully, "and that's what makes it interesting. I'm forced out of my supine position. I don't move, you know—" she gives a self-deprecatory laugh — "unless someone pushes me. Honestly, though, I'm terribly excited about going."

What do her two sons, George and Henry, and 10 grandchildren think?

"I imagine they wish they were going too," she says with a chuckle.

She hasn't thought about what clothes to take—"just cool ones." No one will worry, though, when she does make her wardrobe selection. Mrs. Lodge is known for her unerring taste in suiting the costume to the situation.

Putting people at ease is second nature for Mrs. Lodge, a brown-

An Unforeseen Advantage

South Viet Nam Is Becoming New U.S. Proving Ground

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — South Viet Nam is proving to be a valuable laboratory for combat-testing new U.S. ideas in special military equipment.

It also is giving the Army, Marine and Air Force a chance to work out—under shooting-war conditions—new tactics and techniques for using helicopters and fixed-wing aircraft in guerrilla-type wars.

The thousands of U.S. military men advising and training the South Vietnamese forces in their war against Communist insurgents form a growing corps of seasoned veterans returning to impart what they have learned.

It all adds up to a body of experience that may pay dividends in possible future operations elsewhere in the world if, as U.S. officials expect, the Communists concentrate in years to come on subversion in efforts to bring down pro-Western governments.

The Pentagon's program to develop a new gear for special purposes is carried on by the Advanced Research Projects Agency (ARPA) under the name "Project Agile." ARPA has two research and development teams in South-east Asia.

The emphasis is on simplicity, durability, ease of maintenance and adaptability to the terrain.

One development—called a swimmer support boat—is credited with opening up areas of the watery Mekong River delta that formerly were virtually inaccessible to Vietnamese government forces, except by helicopter.

The boat is a rugged craft built locally from plastic styrofoam and fiberglass. ARPA officials describe it as a high speed, unsinkable, shallow draft assault craft.

"The great increase in mobility afforded by the swimmer support boats now permits military operations in the delta which were hitherto not feasible," ARPA director Jack Ruina told Congress recently.

Another project in this same field is called the marsh screw vehicle.

Ruina said it represents "a neat technological compromise between the principles of a propeller, the principles of a wheeled

Scott Carpenter To See Eclipse July 20

HOUSTON (AP)—Lt. Cmdr. M. Scott Carpenter, termed the most science-minded of the original seven astronauts, was chosen Monday to join a team of scientists in a jet airliner to observe an eclipse of the sun over western Canada July 20.

Officials of the Manned Spacecraft Center said Carpenter's chief task will be to study a puzzling phenomenon of the night sky, the zodiacal light, which also is visible during eclipses.

Aiding him in his study will be Dr. Jocelyn R. Gill, an astronomer with the Goddard Space Flight Center at Greenbelt, Md. She said it is hoped to improve the ability of the astronauts to observe the zodiacal light in future space flights.

ARPA has been brought into the vital strategic hamlet program, under which the South Vietnamese government is resettling hundreds of thousands of peasants in fortified villages to give them security against the Communists who have preyed on them.

For this purpose, ARPA scientists studied the experience of the Israelis with their "kibbutz" communities, the Burmese, and the British in their 11-year campaign which ended in suppression of Malayan Communist insurgents.

Fought 100 Years Ago

Lee's Invasion of The North Halted By Meade

EDITOR'S NOTE—The decisive battle of Gettysburg, fought 100 years ago, spread horror and carnage around the little Pennsylvania town and ended with a once proud Confederate army in retreat. Its hopes of penetrating the North in force forever smashed. Here is the way a correspondent at the scene might have reported the climactic battle.

By TOM HENSHAW

GETTYSBURG (AP) — The Union army won a smashing decisive victory today over the Confederate forces of Gen. Robert E. Lee, turning back his invasion of the North.

The climax of the great three-day battle at Gettysburg came at 3 p.m. this hot, humid afternoon when 15,000 Confederates under Gen. George E. Pickett assaulted the center of the Federal line.

They were hurled back with heavy losses after Brig. Gen. Lewis A. Armistead, 46, of Virginia, and 150 men momentarily penetrated the defenses on Cemetery Ridge. Armistead was killed.

Brig. Gen. John D. Imboden late tonight quoted Gen. Lee as saying: "We must return to Virginia."

Losses in killed, wounded and missing during the three-day battle were estimated at 23,040 for the Union Army of the Potomac and 28,000 for the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia.

The assault by Pickett's division and those of Brig. Gen. Johnston Pettigrew and Maj. Gen. Isaac R. Trimble was launched after one of the greatest artillery barrages ever seen on the North American continent.

"If a constellation of meteoric worlds had exploded above our heads, it would have scarcely been more terrible than this iron rain of death furiously hurled upon us," said Union Pvt. Warren L. Goss.

"Over these sounds were heard the shrieks and groans of the wounded and dying. The uproar of the day previous seemed silence when compared to this inferno."

About 3 p.m., the artillery fell silent and the men of Pickett, Trimble and Pettigrew began their long march across the valley between Seminary and Cemetery Ridges.

"Every eye could see (the) legions," reported Lt. Frank A. Haskell of the 2nd Corps, "an overwhelming resistless tide of an ocean of armed men sweeping upon us!"

Regiment after regiment and brigade after brigade moved from the woods and rapidly took their places in the lines forming the assault . . . magnificent, grim, irresistible."

The Federal cannon opened fire.

Confederate Capt. H. T. Owen described the scene like this:

"Round shot, bounding along the plain, tore through their ranks and ricocheted incessantly in blinding, dazzling flashes before them, behind them, overhead and among them."

"Frightful gaps were made from center to flank, yet on swept the column, and as it advanced the men steadily closed up the wide rents made along the line in a hundred places at every discharge of the murderous batteries in front."

Gen. Armistead and his gallant brigade after brigade moved from wall and clashed hand-to-hand with the Philadelphia Brigade led by Brig. Gen. Alexander Webb, 28.

Armistead died with his hand on a Union cannon; his 150 men were quickly killed or captured; the great Confederate charge rolled back down the ridge and fled across the valley to safety.

Gen. Lee reportedly told Pickett:

"This was all my fault. This has been my fight and the blame is mine. You men did all men can do. The fault is entirely my own."

Confederate Brig. Gen. Richard B. Garnett also was killed. Brig. Gen. James L. Kemper was wounded and captured, wiping out all Pickett's brigade command.

Division leaders Pettigrew and Trimble were wounded.

On the Union side, Corps Commander Maj. Gen. Winfield S. Hancock and division commander Brig. Gen. John Gibbon were wounded. Gibbon's division of Hancock's corps bore the brunt of the assault.

Earlier in the day, another Confederate attack was beaten back from Cully's Hill on the right wing of the Union defense line. Losses were so high that the Confederates rechristened it "the Hill of Death."

It's raining tonight as Gettysburg as Lee prepares to begin the long, sad march south with his beaten army, a wagon train of wounded 17 miles long, down muddy roads and across swollen streams.

It is believed that Maj. Gen. George G. Meade will make no effort at pursuit. His cavalry commander, Maj. Gen. Alfred Pleasanton, told him tonight:

"I will give you half an hour to show yourself a great general. Order the army to advance, while I take the cavalry and get in Lee's rear, and we will finish the campaign in a week."

"How do you know Lee will not attack me again?" asked Meade, and he added: "We have done well enough."

Morehead Bails Out Sox

One-Hit Gem
By Downing

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Fastballing young Al Downing fired the New York Yankees along with a sparkling one-hit pitching gem, and teen-aged right-hander Dave Morehead pulled the Boston Red Sox out of a spin with a two-hitter.

But the Minnesota Twins flexed batting muscle to keep their drive going in the American League Tuesday night.

Downing allowed only a bouncing single up the middle by Camilo Carreon with two out in the seventh inning in pitching the pace-setting Yankees to their fifth straight victory, a 3-0 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

The 19-year-old Morehead lost his no-hit bid on Fred Whitfield's bad-hop single leading off the eighth inning but brought the Red Sox home over the Cleveland Indians, 6-1.

The Twins scored their eighth klayo in a row, whipping Detroit 7-4 behind the home run power of Bob Allison and Jim Hall. That victory shoved streaking Minnesota into second place, three games behind New York and one-half game ahead of Chicago.

In other AL games, sub Al Smith's hitting led Baltimore over Los Angeles 4-3 and Washington's Bennie Daniels posted his second victory in six days over Kansas City, 7-2.

The Yanks collected only their second victory in seven games this year with the White Sox and in the process defeated Ray Herbert, who had shut them out twice previously. Tony Kubek singled across the first Yankee run in the third. Hector Lopez gave Downing some working room with a two-run homer in the fifth.

Downing, winner in three of four decisions since being promoted from the minors four weeks ago, held the opposition hitless through six innings for the second straight time. He did the same against Boston last Friday night.

Against the White Sox, the 21-year-old southpaw walked six, but struck out 10.

Morehead had a perfect game going at Cleveland until T. Francona walked with two out in the seventh and a no-hitter in the works until Whitfield led off the eighth with a grounder that glanced off a pebble over second baseman Chuck Schilling's head for a single.

The only other hit off Morehead

Little League
Insurance Plan Looked Into

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa's insurance commissioner, William E. Timmons, has called a hearing July 12 on the exclusive insurance contract entered into by the National Little League headquarters with American Casualty Co. of Reading, Pa.

Timmons said the company will have an opportunity to show cause why it should not be ordered to "cease and desist from certain acts, methods and procedures."

Two Iowa groups lost their franchises from the Little League's headquarters at Williamsport, Pa., when they failed to buy insurance for their members from American Casualty. Their officers said they could buy cheaper insurance from Iowa companies.

was a leadoff homer in the ninth by John Romano, just restored to the active list after being out five weeks with a broken hand.

Singles by Morehead and Schilling drove in two Boston runs off loser Barry Latman in the second and the Red Sox got four more in the sixth in a spurt triggered by Lu Clinton's homer.

Red Sox' victory came after four straight losses at New York. Allison ran his homer total to a league high of 20, connecting with one on in the third as the Twins broke a 1-1 tie at Detroit, and Hall belted a 430-foot three-run shot in the sixth.

Dick Stigman was the winner, with help in the ninth from workhorse reliever Bill Dailey, and Bill Faul was the loser.

Smith, who replaced injured rookie outfielder Fred Valentine in the first inning at Baltimore, singled and scored in the second, singled home a run in the third, and doubled in the Orioles' deciding run in the seventh.

It was a night of casualties for the Orioles. Starter Steve Barber had to come out after bruising his right knee in a first base collision with Angels' loser Paul Foytack in the fourth. Boog Powell went to the sidelines after fouling a pitch off his right ankle in the sixth, and Valentine severely sprained his right ankle in an out-field slip. Dick Hall replaced Barber and was the winning pitcher.

Daniels, whose only two victories this season are over the Athletics, turned in his first complete game in nine starts. The Senators settled things against loser Orlando Pena with three unearned runs in the fifth on three Kansas City errors, a sacrifice and two bloop hits.

Five Homers in Game

Bats Boom As BJ Chiefs

Romp by Carrollton 24-4

Sedalia's Ban Johnson Chiefs continued their undefeated ways Tuesday night as their bats boomed out 18 base hits, including five homers, to thump Carrollton 24-4 on the losers' diamond.

The victory was the Chiefs' second in the final half of BJ league play and boosted their loop mark to 8-0.

Bill Ferguson rapped out two grand slam home runs, one in the fourth and one in the fifth, to lead the Chiefs' offense. Ernie Dow, Bob Lang and Gary Bryant also contributed four-baggers.

Dow picked up four base hits, Ron Mooney, Lonnie Schott had three each, Ferguson, Lange and Butch Walker collected two each. Bryant and Barr had one hit apiece.

Don Wilhite worked the entire game on the mound for the Sedalians, allowing only six hits and striking out 12 Carrollton hitters. Baker took the loss for Carrollton with Wheeler coming in later in relief.

The Chiefs committed only two fielding errors while Carrollton had six.

Idea for Surf Club Came From Trips Back East

John Talbot, Route 3, has a construction company in Illinois which takes him away from home quite a lot, too much to suit his wife, Lois, but while he was away on his construction business he saw what was going on east of the Mississippi and one thing that impressed him was the Surf Clubs.

"We think we do a lot of swimming here," Talbot said, "but they do much more in the East, and the Surf Clubs seem to be the answer to a real need. Cities are growing too fast for the building of municipal pools, and Surf Clubs are springing up everywhere.

Owning the 80 acres of rolling land that is the Walnut Hills addition, he purchased the adjoining 30 acres for a brand new venture, the first Surf Club in mid-Missouri.

Ideally located on a hilltop where it overlooks the picturesque country on all sides, far enough from town to make it in the country, yet, near enough that the town may be seen in the distance and only a few minutes away on the West 16th Street Road.

Some of the Surf Clubs, Talbot found, when he began to look into them, are owned by a group of two or three hundred people who got together and built one, but these are not too good an idea, he thought, because there are too many people to express opinions on what should and what should not be done. The other kind was for one man to build it and sell memberships, which was the one he thought was the most satisfactory. So he made plans and has built the club to offer swimming and other diversions to the people of his community.

He and Lois own the facilities and are leasing it. There is a board composed of William F. Brown, attorney; Gerald Graham, an accountant; and Bruce Dawson, with the Social Security Administration and who has farming interests directly across the road from the club.

More than 12 of the 30 acres has been set up for the Surf Club area, which, in addition to the club house and swimming pools, will have a picnic area in the wooded section to the south and west with white tables and benches, ovens, and all that goes with a nice picnic grounds. There are plenty of big shade trees and little cedars have been left to give it that look of the woods.

On the west a large space has been cleared for a play area for children, and various kinds of equipment placed for them to play on. On the east are two of the finest tennis courts anywhere. Talbot has engaged a firm whose business it is to make tennis courts, to build them.

The driveway goes up from the 16th Street Road circles to the entrance of the clubhouse and to the large parking lot in front.

The building, with laminated wooden arches giving it a modern architectural design, is of buff brick, in front with coral shade trim. It is 92 by 80, and the inside is all aqua blue, with the arches of white ash stain. The floor is gray marbled tile and the entire front and back of the building is glass. The club house is air conditioned and, although practically all of the Surf Clubs have no heating system, because they are used only in the summer, Talbot decided that he was going to have a heating system in case that there should be a need for it.

Entering the door of the club house are settings of intricate wrought iron furniture with chairs with lavender seats and backs and tables. In the far corner at the back overlooking the swimming pool is a three-piece sectional in lavender and aqua floral design, and tables. Here, too, will be a lovely wisteria plant.

On the west side of the building is a snack bar in walnut with lighter color top and modern stools that blend with the coloring of the room.

On the west side of the building near the entrance is the small office and where they register for keys to the lockers. Here, too, is the door into the men's dressing room with showers and basket lockers into which their clothes are put and locked. On the west side is the utility room and the door to the ladies' dressing room with delicate shower curtains and a vanity. Both dressing rooms lead out to the pool.

The door at the rear of the club house opens on to a large patio completely enclosed with a white wrought iron railing in the center of which is the name, "Surf Club." This is for the non-swimmers who want to watch. The furniture on the patio is white and turquoise with groupings of round tables and settees in wrought iron and pretty umbrellas where they may sit and, if they care to, eat.

The large pool is directly back of the building and is a 25 meter pool built by the National Pool Engineers, the largest pool builders in the nation, and it is large enough to hold AAU swimming meets. Built in an "L" shape for safety it is 82½ feet long, 75 feet wide, at the widest part, which is 40 feet long, and 42 feet wide at the narrow part. There are three diving boards, one 18 inches off the water, one one-meter and one three-meter, which is about ten feet.

There is no swimming under the diving area, which prevents accidents, and another safety measure is that the diving well is 16 feet deep so that there is no danger of divers hitting their heads on the bottom.

The walls are built of pre-stressed blocks in two rows, filled with concrete and plastered with ground marble, 33,000 pounds of it, that will always remain white. Four times a day the water is tested for acidity. It is not the chemical in the water that causes the eyes to burn, Talbot said he learned, but the acidity of the water.

It takes 220,000 gallons of water to fill the three pools, the big pool, the wading pool which is on the west side and the training pool on the east side. All the water in the pools is refiltered every eight hours, and is two points purer than drinking water. There are underwater lights, two at the ends with 1500 watts and six on each side with 500 watts.

The wading pool is 20 by 20 feet, and turns the water twice as fast as the other pools because it is for small children. It is enclosed with a fence which has a gate so the tots cannot get out and go to the larger pools.

The training pool is 20 by 40 and it is here that swimming is taught.

Kenneth Cordry is manager of the pools, and life guard operation, for swimming facilities and basically in charge of instruction. Russ Robinson is a guard and instructor, and life guards are John Weller and Pam McGrath, with others to be hired.

The pools will be open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., and lessons will be given until 11 a.m.

Inter-club competition in strokes and diving will be a feature.

There are wide decks around all of the pools, and at the west side will be a large area enclosed by a fence for those who want to get a snack. There will be no eating allowed around the pools, except in this area which will have colorful chairs and tables.

The very wide decks will have yellow and orange umbrellas with fringe, solid top and floral underneath. There will be stack chairs and chaise lounges with yellow webbing and white webbing.

Twenty feet back of the big pool will be covered cabana of aluminum and a wrought iron railing. A six foot fence will surround the entire swimming area.

Jim Gladbach is manager of the Surf Club.

A new type of music that will be heard over the entire building, pools and decks, is called foreground music. Soft background music is used in stores and establishments of various kinds, the foreground music is for places of activity. It goes 28 hours before it repeats a record.

Other forms of sports may be added later, said John Talbot, and he has things in mind, but these things are not in his present plans for this year.

John doesn't care much for swimming and Lois doesn't swim at all. They have three children, a boy, 12 years old, and two girls eight and ten, and he believes they will enjoy the Surf Club, in which the family has membership.

It has cost more money, of course, than he expected, such as hitting rock that had to be blasted and other things, but he thinks it is going to be a place families will really enjoy.

A membership fee for life for the entire family costs $135 and that includes everybody who lives under the one roof, no matter the size of the family, man, wife, any number of children who are at home, their parents or other members of their family who live in the home. Then the dues are $40 for the family per year. This membership entitles any or all of them to use the pools any time and as often as they want free of charge, and all other facilities offered by the club, Talbot says. There is no charge for anything except, of course, the food or soft drinks at the snack bar.

The Surf Club, however, is not open to the public, and nobody can use it except members.

Adco lost their first game of the year in Tuesday night's Babe Ruth play at the Liberty Park baseball diamond.

Adco's loss came at the hands of Hillcrest Lanes, who came out on top, 5-2, in a well played game. Light rains during the game did little to mar good fielding and pitching on both teams.

The winning pitcher for Hillcrest was Mike Vansell, who allowed five hits, five walks, and issued nine strikeouts. Hasler was the losing hurler. He was relieved in the sixth by Kraxberger, who was relieved by Jim Thomas, who finished the game.

The second game saw Freese run over Brown Auto 14-4. McKenzie relieved Fillicetti on the mound for Freese, with Brown's Woodsmall taking the loss.

Rakow to Re-appear

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pitcher Ed Rakow is expected to rejoin the Kansas City Athletics in Washington today after being absent without leave since Sunday.

Rakow disappeared after being taken out of the first game of a doubleheader in Baltimore Sunday but was not missed until Monday, according to the A's. The club said he went to Pittsburgh to see his former wife and daughter.

Pat Friday, general manager of the Athletics, said Rakow had marital and financial problems. He said the club would withhold judgment until the pitcher's return.

This membership entitles any or all of them to use the pools any time and as often as they want free of charge, and all other facilities offered by the club, Talbot says. There is no charge for anything except, of course, the food or soft drinks at the snack bar.

The Surf Club, however, is not open to the public, and nobody can use it except members.

BOYS CLUB NOTES

Ralph Walker, regional director of Boys Clubs of Chicago, Ill., was a visitor in Sedalia Wednesday and while here inspected Camp Bob White at Knob Noster State Park in view of holding the annual Sho Me area conference for junior leaders.

Mike White is a new member of the club.

About 15 boys were on hand for junior tennis instructions at the park Wednesday morning. The clinic is in charge of Bob Moore, and every youngster who is interested in learning to play tennis is requested to be present and receive this free instruction. Several tennis racquets have been secured for the youngsters to use.

A new activity will get under way at the club which every Boys Club member will be eligible to one hour's instruction on the Trampoline on Thursday morning each week in July or half hours jumping in the afternoon. Each member is asked to bring his membership card to enjoy this activity. Also space ball can be played. This event will open on Thursday, July 4, and continue through the month of July.

Due to the extreme hot weather the tennis tournament has slowed down but one match has been played. Bob Berlin defeated Bill Herring in straight sets 6-4, 6-4. Berlin will meet Doug Dickman and Bill Herring will meet Bill Solon.

Other results in the tennis tournament: Bob Herring defeated Rick Esser in straight sets 7-5 and 6-3 and will meet the winner of the Jim Downs - Tom Norris match. Esser will meet the loser of that game.

One hundred twenty-one boys availed themselves of the outdoor activities of the club during the month of June. Included were a marble tournament and a tennis tournament which will be completed this month.

The leadership club in recognition of citizenship will meet and attend one of the council meetings of the city council, visit the jail, police court and several other city and county agencies.

This activity will be in charge of Ronald Soanka, Sedalia Boys Club Boy of the Year, and will give the boys leadership club some insight on the operation of city and county government. Later in the summer several industries will be visited by the group and be given an idea on the operation of the various industries.

Mrs. Kellar, widow of the man to whom the hospital is a memorial, received the Bibles on behalf of the hospital.

Gideons present were E. W. Schultz, Melvin McCown, Jr., and Charles Spahr. Mrs. Spahr represented the auxiliary and presented the white testaments to the nurses.
